Reference is made to the following documents:

D1: US 6,450,551 B1 (Sep. 17, 2002)

D2: EP 0987484 A2 (Aug. 12, 1999)

D3: KP 20-0277297 U (Jun. 01, 2002)

Claim 1 of the present application relates to a pipe joint device comprising: flanges having at least one ring groove around an outer circumferential surface thereof; a packing having inner rings around an inner circumferential surface thereof to closely engage with the ring grooves of the flanges; and a clamp having a packing seat and a support sidewall and being divided into a plurality of clamp parts so that the clamp parts are placed around the packing.

D1 discloses a coupling structure for coupling nonferrous metal pipes, comprising iron socket component members (10, 10a) having two grooves (11, 12) at the inner circumferential surfaces thereof; a nonferrous metal layer (14) having a face matching with the inner face of a resin layer (15); a sealing ring (3a); and a packing (3) inserted into the inner portion of the socket members.

D2 discloses a pipe coupler for connecting pipes together, comprising cylindrical sockets (9, 9a), each socket including a pocket (11); a packing (12) inserted into the pocket; and a body (10) having a binding groove (13) formed therein.

D3 discloses a pipe coupler comprising packings (10, 10') inserted between pipes (1, 1'); fixing rings (3, 3') having fixing prominences (5, 5') therein to be put together with depressions (2, 2') which are formed at an outer surface of the pipe; and clamps (6, 6') placed around and connected to the fixing rings.

Supplemental Box

In case the space in any of the preceding boxes is not sufficient.
Continuation of:

Box V.

The following are comparisons between said claim 1 and said documents D1-D3: claim 1 differs from D1 and D3 in that D1 and D2 do not disclose flanges having ring grooves at outer circumferential surfaces thereof, and differs from D2 in that D2 does not disclose the features of claim 1 including a clamp. In addition, said features of the present invention would not be obvious to a person skilled in the art.

Therefore, the subject matter of claim 1 and claims 2-12 which are dependent on claim 1 is considered to be novel, to involve an inventive step, and to be industrially applicable under PCT Article 33(2)-33(4).
